The Binet-Kamat Intelligence Scale Kamat has revised the Stanford Binet scales to suit Indian conditions. The test has subtests from Age III. They correspond to three groups:  $\hat{A}$  are people who got more than 20 points in these tests.  $\hat{B}$  are people who received more than 20 - 18 points in these tests.  $\hat{C}$  are people who scored less than 18 on these tests. Kamat suggested that such people tend to be depressed, which makes it difficult for them to achieve success, since depression makes them unable to understand what success is. He also used the Indian Intelligence Scale for the Motor Ability test.
