^.^.Transcranial focused ultrasound application for deep brain stimulation: a preliminary study of a novel approach for chronic dyskinesia. Transcranial focused ultrasound (FUS) has recently been shown to offer an effective therapeutic approach for deep brain stimulation (DBS) for movement disorders. In this study we have used FUS to test its efficacy for dystonia in a small cohort of patients. We used a Sonalleve device (Sonalleve, Haifa, Israel) in two patients with bilateral dystonia (torticollis in one, blepharospasm in the second). In each case, the electrodes were implanted stereotactically, using a Fugowire-type system, with a target located in the globus pallidus internus (GPI). What's new:

, 6 March 2018 The Chinese government has ordered the Orthodox Patriarch of Jerusalem, His Beatitude Pope Tawadros II, to stop visiting the Holy Land and other countries on “state” interests, and because he is on a “personal” visit for his health. The order was given on the basis of the edict of September 4, 2017, which measures the “Organization of Islamic Cooperation” (OIC) has imposed on all Islamic countries to boycott Jerusalem. The OIC, for instance, has asked all OIC states, among other things, to boycott embassies of Israel and deny visas to Israeli citizens to visit any country. The Patriarchate of Jerusalem has called on all Christians to support it in regard to the OIC edict to boycott Jerusalem and all activity in Jerusalem, in particular to support the so-called New Palestinian State with the capital in East Jerusalem. “OIC’s edict calling for the closure of all embassies, including the embassy of the State of Palestine, of all countries in the world is illegal, inappropriate, unacceptable and illogical, especially when it comes to relations with a lot of Palestinian Christians who work in these countries,” the Patriarchate states. “The Patriarchate of Jerusalem calls on the Christians of these countries to strictly abide by the ‘OIC edict and demonstrate solidarity with the Palestinian Christians in particular and the cause of liberation of the oppressed peoples in general,” the Patriarchate says. “Let’s have the courage of saying with our hands ‘not in my name!’” The Patriarchate of Jerusalem said that the life of any person and any country depends on what they do and how they act in the world, and on how they react to the injustice and sufferings of others. “The so-called ‘OIC edict’ is manifestly illegal,” the Patriarchate said. “The organization [OIC] has no authority to enact such edicts.” “For Israel, the gates of its cities would not be closed because its Jews reside there. In the same way, for Christians, the gates of all their embassies and consulates should not be closed. Every Christian is a citizen of the world.” The OIC took the decision “to boycott the State of Palestine,” where the Patriarch of Jerusalem has been

Field of the Invention

The present invention relates to a modular network unit. In a network, information is transmitted by network devices, including repeaters, routers, hubswitches, etc. A cabling system in a network connects network devices to each other and may include one or more distribution networks. A distribution network is typically a network comprised of individual network segments, each of which includes a plurality of links. Within the distribution network, network devices exchange data on one of more links. A hubswitch is the central switching device in the distribution network, routing data to and from the individual network segments. A given segment is often connected to other segments by a distribution hub. A distribution hub is comprised of a network of network devices and allows for data exchange between the two different segments to allow data flow between a first network segment, the hub, and a second network segment. Typically, one or more links connect the two segments together. In one exemplary configuration, a hub switch has one or more links to the network segment and one or more links to the distribution network. Hubswitches may be differentiated based on how they operate. A multi-access hub is used as a central node in a multi-access distribution network and provides the ability to connect multiple client devices to the network. In one exemplary configuration, the multi-access hub includes a plurality of switches which allow the hub to cross-connect any of the
